Each session is a deliberating session and will be formatted identically. No votes will be taken.

Members of the public interested in learning more about KCI's operations can view the following video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VsPYIHmlmRc>. It features a behind the scenes tour of Kansas City International Airport taken by members of the advisory group as they learned about the airport's infrastructure, security and other operational issues.

The advisory group comprises community members from across the metro area appointed by Mayor James. Members have been meeting twice a month since July 2013, to study airport issues and learn more about airport operations and the potential impact of any change.

The group expects to make a recommendation in April 2014, to Mayor James and the City Council. The City Council must approve any new plans for the terminal configuration, and the public must vote on any change requiring issuing bonds to finance the project.

Mission Statement: The Airport Terminal Advisory Group, after reviewing appropriate relevant facts and consulting with key stakeholders, will make a recommendation as to the optimal configuration of the Kansas City International Airport which best serves the vision and long-term success of its private and business residents and visitors from the standpoint of economic impact (affordability and business creation), flexibility (adaptability and convenience) and safety (security and environmental performance).
